him Do not get the idea that the summer climate here is intolerably hot. That is a great mistake. The cooling Trade Winds blow in fresh from the Gulf all summer long and make Corpus Christi cooler during a hot spell than New York or Saratoga. The thermometer has never gone higher than 92° upon the Port Aransas Cliffs. This seems to wonderful to be true, but it is true! The F. S. Signal Service station is located on the beach, under the Bluff, where it is several degrees warmer than upon the Bluff. This is the official record for hot months of 1889:

We are now prepared to offer some of the finest farm and garden lands in the world, to actual settlers, on small payments and ten years' time. The Growing Season is 10 months long every year, and some years 12 months long. The Soil is rich fertile, generous. Fertilizers are not needed.

Rainfall is ample and comes at the right time. Three Crops are often produced in a single year from the same land.

Vegetables are taken out of the ground every month in the year.

A White Man can work in the field every day all summer. The fresh, salty sea breeze makes it often from 10 to 20 deg, cooler here during the summer weather, than it is 200 miles inland.

Cattle do not require housing and feeding here four or five months as at the North but get their own living the year round—an enormous item of saving to the farmer.

We Grow peaches, plums, melons, grapes, figs, pears, peas, beaus, asparagus, celery, potatoes, sugar, sorghum, cotton, corn, hay, tobacco-and just everything

On breaking in the door the bookkeeper, William Weber, was found lying senseless in a pool of blood, a large gash in his head and several bruises. The safe was open and the contents were scattered over the floor. A lpt of silverware and silver coin also lay bound promiseuously. As Weber is still unconficious it cannot be learned how much money was stolen. It is the theory that while he was locking the safe he was assailed by burglars who robbed the safe and then fired the building to cover up their crime.

ENTOMBED MINERS.

The Sad Fate of the Victims of a Mine Disaster-Nineteen Dead Bodies Found-Others Missing.

WILKES BARRE, PA., May 15 .- Rescuing par. ties were at once organized, and an opening was stream, where the chambers in that part of the mine came within a few feet of the surface. All day long these men toiled at the hard and stubborn rocks, while the weeping wives and little ones of the doomed victims stood around the opening and rent the air with their cries and lamentations. Gang after gang relieved one another. The news was passed that they had succeeded in breaking through the chamber beneath breaking through the chamber beneath the cave. A period of suspense followed, while the thousands who stood around the opening waited for some intelligence from the men at work. At 6 o'clock the foreman crawled out of the opening on his hands and knees and announced that they had found one of the victims. He was lying at the bottom of a 500 foot plane, and in order to rescue him it became necessary to lower a miner down with a rope. The charred and blackened form of Anthony Froyne, the first of the victims, was hotsted to the surface. He was still alive, but his injuries are considered fatal. When the news apread that Froyne was hurared a look of the deepest gloom overspread the faces of the old miners who were present. They shook their heads sadly, saying the fact of Froyne being so badly burned left very little hope for the safety of his companious. It is supposed that Froyne wandered away from the rest of the men, and in his efforts to find his way he fired the gas in an old chamber. If this explosion reached the othermen their chances of secane are very slight.

efforts to find his way he fired the gas in an old chamber. If this explosion reached the other men their chances of escape are very slight.

The latest report from the scene of the disaster, at 80 clock, is to the effect that the rescuing party has penetrated to within sight of two dead bodies, but the gas is so thick that they had to retreat.

At midnight rescuing parties were driven out of gangways by gas. They were obliged to leave their safety lamps outside and grope their way back where nothing could be done but listen for groans of wounded. An effort is now (12 o'clock) being made to change the air current so as to drive the gas back from where the victims are supposed to be.

LATER PARTICULARS. WILLES BARRE, PA., May 16 .- Exploring pas ties have penetrated the mine at Ashley. They find nineteen dead; six men are still missing and it is more than probable they too are dead The scene at the mine as the dead and charred bodies were being brought out was heartrending in the extreme. Men, women and children shricking and groaning, fell upon their knees, lifted their hands and their eyes towards heaven and prayed for the dead.
